The carriages

Every carriage on the British Pullman has a name and a history. Built between the wars and lovingly restored, they once ran on famous services such as the Golden Arrow and carried kings, queens and heads of state. Inside you will find gleaming marquetry, brass luggage racks, plush armchairs and table lamps.

Two carriages have been reimagined by film-makers: Cygnus by Wes Anderson, and Celia, a private carriage for up to twelve guests, by Baz Luhrmann and Catherine Martin. The whole train, or a single carriage, can be chartered for weddings and celebrations.

Dining on board

Menus are created by Head Chef Jon Freeman, who has led the kitchen for some twenty years, and showcase seasonal British produce. Depending on the journey you may enjoy a Bellini brunch, a five-course lunch or dinner, or a classic roast lunch with Yorkshire pudding.

Meals and drinks described in each itinerary are included, with English wines, champagne receptions, coffee and petits fours; premium drinks can be bought on board. Vegetarian, vegan and allergy needs are catered for if requested at booking.
